- Core Ethical Values in Islam:

→ Truthfulness — Speaking and acting honestly.

→ Trustworthiness — Protecting responsibilities and fulfilling promise.

→ Justice — Treating people fairly.

→ Patience — Remaining steadfast during difficulties.

→ Humility — Avoiding Pride and respecting others.

→ Forgiveness — Pardoning other,

→ Gratitude — Appreciating Allah's blessings.

→ Modesty — Maintaining dignity and moral restraints.

→ Maintaining regular prayer

→ Remaining comitted to worship and righteous conduct.

- Lugman :12-19 — Family Ethics

Lagman advised his sons to be grateful to Allah and never commit Shirk, which means associating partners with Allah. He explains that action small as mustard seed is known to Allah. He encourages prayer, good deeds, patience, humality, and moderate voice. The Quran also teaches that parents must be treated kindly, even when their instruction to commit Shirk or another wrong must not be obeyed. Respect and kindness towards parents remain essential.

- Hujrat: (6-18) — Community Harmony:

These verses teach Muslims to verify news before acting upon it, reconcile disputes fairly and remember that believers are brothers. Mockery, insulting names, excessive suspicion, spying and backbitting are prohibited. All human beings comes from a common origin, and most honoured in the sight of Allah are those with the greatest Taqwa, not those with greater wealth or social status.

* Lecture 4 — Personality Development and Ethical Values.

• Personality Development and Tazkiyah.

Tazkiyah means purification of soul from sinful habbits and the development of good qualities. Surah Jummah (62:2) explains that the Prophet (PBUH) recited Allah's verses, purified people and taught them the Book and wisdom.

Surah Shams (91:9-10) teaches that success belongs to the one who purifies the soul while failure comes from corrupting it. A purified soul can attain tranquility, known as Nafs-e-Mutamainnah (Fajar: 27-30).

• Qualities of Successful Belives.

(Mu'minoon: 1-11, describes successful believes through these qualities:

→ Humility & concentration in prayer.
→ Avoidance of useless speech and activities.
→ Giving Zakat and fulfilling financial duties
→ Guarding chastity
→ Protecting trust and fulfilling promises.

(Hujurat: 1-5) :— Commands believers not to place their opinions above Allah and His Messenger, not to raise their voice above His voice, and to show patience and respect when addressing HIM.

These verses emphasizes obedience, humility, respectful speech, and love for Prophet (PBUH).

- Seal of Prophethood and Modren Challenges to Hadith.

Khatm-Nubuwah means the finality of Prophethood. The Quran identifies the Prophet (PBUH) as Seal of Prophets. The Prophet Himself stated:
"There is no prophet after me."

Two Modren Challenges to Hadith are spread of fabricated narrations on social media and circulation of authentic narration without proper context. We should verify references, consult reliable Hadith collections, and learn about the methods scholars use to examine chains of transmission and narration.

• Status of HOLY PROPHET (PBUH):

Prophet (PBUH) is the FINAL messenger of Allah and an example for humanity. All We Muslims are commanded to respect and obey and follow him in accordance with Allah's guidance. Surah Nisa (4:80) teaches that obeying the Messenger is obeying Allah. Respect for Prophet should be expressed through following his teaching, using respected language, and maintaining good manners.

• Quranic teaching Related to Adab al Nabi:

Abad Nabi is proper manners and respect towards Prophet (PBUH).

- (Ahzab:6) — Establishes the Prophet's special relationship with believers.
- (Ahzab: 21) — Presents HIM (PBUH) as an ideal example to follow.
- (33:32) — Discusses HIS household and special responsibilities and conduct expected of HIS wives.
- Ahzab (33:40) — Decleres Prophet (PBUH) the messenger of Allah and seal of Prophets.
- (Ahzab 56-57) — Command belives to send blessings upon him and teach respectful conduct and modesty.

Lecture : 3, Introduction To Sunnah and its Sciences

- Sunnah and its significance :

Sunnah refers to teaching, practices and approved conduct of Prophet (ﷺ). It is an essential source of Islamic guidance alongside the Quran. The Sunnah explains how Muslims should perform prayers, give Zakat, observe fasting, and demonstrate good character. Allah says:

"Indeed, in the Messenger of Allah you have an excellent example." — Ahzab:21.

- Difference b/w Sunnah & Hadith:

Sunnah is the Prophet's established way of life and guidance. Hadith are the reports describing Prophet's sayings, actions, approvals and, characteristics.. Hadith literature is an important means of learning Sunnah. Understanding this difference helps us study Islamic teaching accurately and evaluate the reliability of reports.

• Makkan and Madinan Verses:

Maki Surahs refers to verses revealed before Prophet migrated to Madinah. These verses focuses on oneness of Allah - Tauheed, prophethood, resurrection, accountability and moral character. For example: Surah Ikhlas explains oneness of Allah.

Madni Surah refers to verses revealed after migration. They discuss worship, family matters, social responsibility, justice, community relations and legal guidance. For example: Surah Bakrah contains teaching about fasting and financial responsibilities.

These are general differences, not every verse follows every characteristics.

Preservation & compilation of Quran:

The Quran was preserved through following stages:

* During Prophet life time:

Prophet (P.B.U.H) received revelation gradually over 23 years. He recited them to his companions, who memorized them and wrote them on material available. The order of verses was taught under his guidance.

* During Kahifa Abu Bakar (R.A):

In Yamman Battle, many Hafiz of Quran died. Hazrat Umar (R.A) suggested collecting Quran into one compiled manuscript. Abu Bakar (R.A) appointed Zayd ibn Thabit (R.A). to undertake this careful task using written material and memorized recitations.

* During Khalifa Usman (R.A):

As Islam spread, differences in recitation became a concern. Hazrat Usman (R.A) appointed a committee to prepare standard copies based on authorized collection. Copies were sent to major regions to promote unity in Quran text.